Presentation:

Starting from Scratch: How to Produce and Direct an Off Off Broadway Show

Getting a new play off the ground in NYC is both challenging and rewarding. Professor Bush explores the process of mounting a new play including fine tuning the script, leasing a theatre, finding a production team, casting, rehearsing, publicizing, creating a box office, and opening the show. Some important questions will be answered such as: Why was there a metal detector at the front door? How hard was it to find a dominatrix outfit in Manhattan? And, what is the best way to empty eight liquor bottles needed for props?

Presentation begins at 4:00 pm

Refreshments provided at 3:30 pm
