Center for Teaching, Learning, and Assessment
Advisory Group

Advisory Group Role and Function:
• To provide EOU instructional faculty and staff with development opportunities wherever they are.
• To advise on and recommend development opportunities that foster a culture of best practices in teaching, learning and assessment.
• To address emerging issues in seated and technology-leveraged instruction.
• To pursue grants that provide resources and support for faculty engagement in timely initiatives.
• To encourage staff development opportunities related to the development and maintenance of instructional materials and resources.

Advisory Group Responsibilities:
• Research, identify, and/or create development opportunities for instructional faculty and staff.
• Collect and share information with instructional faculty and staff.
• Organize development events, including Fall Orientation, speakers, etc.
• Provide a virtual mentoring directory and resource through the CTLA website.
• Make recommendations where appropriate for establishing support structures for the development and maintenance of instructional materials.
